Citation and References: Citation Tools in Databases

Reference/Citation Tool in Encyclopedia Britannica School Edition, EBSCO and JSTOR Subscription Databases

In Britannica School Online database, you can find some tools at the top right side of each article. Among those tools, click the one with a tick in a square box. Select your citation and then you will see the reference information appears at the bottom.

In EBSCOhost databases, you can find some tools on the right side of each result. Click "cite" and find the citation format of this source in many different referencing style. You can either copy it or export the details and use it in other reference management tool, e.g. Zotero or Word reference tool.

In JSTOR database, you can also find citation tool on the right side of each result. You can view, email, export and save the item's citation. Please note that the citation tool in JSTOR provides only information you need when writing the reference and citation. You must re-write them in the correct referencing format in your essay.

The screenshot displays the JSTOR interface for a search result. At the top, navigation links include 'JSTOR HOME', 'SEARCH', 'BROWSE', and 'MyJSTOR'. A search bar is present with a dropdown menu set to 'In This Issue' and a 'Search' button. The main content area shows the journal 'The English Journal' (Vol. 68, No. 2, Feb., 1979) and the article 'The Swan and the Wonderful World of Henry Sugar by Roald Dahl' by Richard F. Abrahamson. A 'Tools' menu is open, listing options: 'View PDF', 'View Citation', 'Email Citation', 'Export Citation', 'Save Citation', and 'Track Citation'. The article's citation information is displayed below the menu. On the right side, there are sections for 'Your access to JSTOR provided by', 'JSTOR' (with 'References' and 'Items by Richard F. Abrahamson'), 'GOOGLE SCHOLAR' (with 'Related Items', 'Items Citing This Item', and 'Items by Richard F. Abrahamson'), 'JOURNAL TRACKING' (with 'Receive updates by email (eTOC)' and 'RSS feed'), and 'RIGHTS AND PERMISSIONS' (with 'More Rights Options' and 'JSTOR Terms And Conditions'). The article title 'The Swan and the Wonderful World of Henry Sugar by Roald Dahl' is repeated below the menu, along with the author's name and page information (Page 41 of 41-42). At the bottom, the author's affiliation is listed: 'Richard E. Barbieri, Milton Academy, Milton, Massachusetts'.
